BET THE CIRCULATION OF THE DIS-PATCH IS LARGER THAN THE COMBINED CIRCULATION OF ALL THE OTHER DAILY NEWSPAPERS OF THE CITY.

THE WEATHER To-DAY .- From our reports this morning the probabilities are that the weather to-day will be generally clear.

THE WEATHER On Sunday was cold and disagreeable, with steady rain, and sleet during the early part of the day. In the afternoon it was partly cloudy or clear. The weather yesterday was clear and pleasant.

A Memorable New-Year's Night-A Slippery Spell-Out-of-Door Perils-Street Scenes.

From Paris correspondent New York Times.] Paris, Monday, January 4, 1875 .- The night of the 1st day of January, 1875, was the most remarkable within the memory of living man. Within the period of my own existence I have seen nothing approaching the singular spectacle then witnessed. Rain had fallen during the day, enough to carry off nearly all the snow that had gathered during the week, but just as the last was beginning to run toward the sewers, the temperature suddenly fell, and at dusk the halfmelted snow began to freeze. It was still freezing when the Parisians left their homes either for the theatre or for the houses of relatives and friends.

Up to 11 o'clock there was nothing but gayety and happiness in all parts of the city, and mean while the streets and sidewalks were covered with ice. This transformation he had a cary street between Laurel and all six rooms; kitchen, &c.

STOLY BUILER DWELLING No. 2220 moment they placed their homes. The first of those who left the theatres went down the moment they placed their was first perceived when the gay revellers steps, and one after another, like a row of bricks, they tumbled, slid, or fell upon the ice. Before the Vaudeville more than a score of men, women, and children went down pell-mell, and slid together into the gutters. The ciforts to rise were like those of an inexperienced skater. Finding it impossible to walk, or even to stand erect, many sat down upon the ice, and either wrapped handkerchiefs and foulards about their shoes, or took off their stockings to put them on the outside. The police did all in their power to aid the people, but they were slipping about like the rest, and frequently went down heavily beside those they were helping to rise. These brave fellows finally took off their boots, and, with bare feet, walked about for more than an hour, until all leaving the theatre were safely deposited in the middle of the street. As for the sidewalks, they were utterly impracticable, but when the ice bad been broken up by passing carriages, it was just possible to stand upright and make a little headsible to stand upright and make a little head-way. Before several of the theatres there lat of February, 1875, and of interest on the lat of February, 1875, and of interest on the lat of February, 1875, and of interest on the lat of February, 1875, and of interest on the late of February, 1875, and of int were serious accidents and many broken

OUT-OF-DOOR INCIDENTS.

But the worst sufferings were endured by the persons who had gone out to dine and city. Long before 10 o'clock the omnibuses streets, the horses being led to the nearest place of shelter, and the entire avenue of the Champs Elysées was strewn with wrecks of all sorts. Cabs with broken shafts were taken up. seen every few yards of the way, and there were ten horses with broken legs between the Arc de Triomphe and the Place de la Concorde. Some of the coachmen tore up their blankets and wrapped them about their horses' feet in order to get them safely home. One gentleman who had sprained his knee a short time before paid fifty francs to be taken home, and was over an hour in going the distance of about a mile. All who could do so remained where they were, and camped upon their host's floor until mornng. Others remained in the carriages by he wayside all night, and several wealthy down went to the police stations and reovercoats of the gendarmes. The expewill serve as an example of hundreds he evening at the house of Mr. Washburne. On leaving they were lucky enough to find a cab, paying ten francs, but in less than a minute the horse was down and both shafts were broken. Another chanced to be walking by and for ten francs more the coachman offered to try his waiting for two hours in the cold a third cab was found, and it managed to make the trip, the gentleman and his wife having been out three hours and paid thirty francs. My own experience was bad enough, but after paying for my cab and leaving it a wreck vote. soon after I put my stockings on over my boots and trumped home in less than an hour.

The next morning at 8:30 I went out to of Public Interests. see what damage had been done, and found three persons having their legs or arms set | ceeded to elect a citizen to serve on the Board in the pharmacy on the first corner. No of Public Interests, to fill the vacancy occahorses were then out, but the streets were sioned by the resignation of Mr. Thomas W. lined with cabs and omnibuses left out the McCance. Mr. Carrington nominated Colonight before. It was not until near 10 nel W. H. Palmer, who was unanimously clock in the morning that the ice was chosen. thawed sufficiently to permit the usual circulation. Three hundred and fifty horses are reported as having been killed after having their legs broken, and more than fifteen hundred accidents to persons are reported. One hospital had two hundred and seventeen cases of broken limbs during the night and day.

The bare enumeration of the accidents which occurred on this night fills two columns of the morning journals. It was painful to see the poor horses laboring to keep upon their feet. As I have before remarked, they are never sharp-shod in France. True, there is rarely any necessity for it, but the rich would not neglect so cheap a precaution even for a single day. The reason for it is, I am told, that the sharp shoes cut up the asphaltum, and are hence forbidden by the municipality. As a general thing the people were lost and completely bewildered and heipless; but a few persons showed that they had "level heads." One shop-keeper stationed himself near a theatre with a supply of woollen stockings, and sold out all at any price he pleased to ask. Another man, a blacksmith, stationed himself at a corner of the street. and drove a few nails through the horses' shoes, enough to give them a slight hold upon the ice; and the coachmen who sacrificed their blankets to make stockings for their horses gained enough to buy several new blankets, and saved their horses and cabs from accident. This day will long be remembered in Parisian annals.

Mr. Bass, from the Committee on Ordinances, reported back Common Council ordinance to amend section 10 of the ordinance concerning the assessment of taxes, which provides that new buildings shall be assessed, whether entirely finished or not, at their actual value at the time of assessment. The ordinance was adopted, and now goes to the Mayor for his approval.

TOBACCO INSPECTION. Mr. Scott, from the Board of Public Inerests, submitted a report of that Board on the resolutions presented to the Common Council by General Johnson, relative to a proposed amendment to the city charter, so as to give Richmond the control of inspections, &c. Mr. Tanner moved that the Common Council resolutions be concurred in. Mr. Carrington, as a substitute, moved to lay the report and resolutions on the table until the next meeting. Lost. The resolutions were adopted.

Mr. Carrington said he disliked to say a word against such a process, but his judgment prompted him to move to lay the resolutions on the table. He thought it would be going out of the way to pass these resolutions. The City Council is composed of two business and not political bodies, and it seemed to him that it would be extremely unwise to take action in the matter. It would do very well in the North and West to pass such resolutions, but it would be highly injudicious to act in the matter.

Mr. Manly said he rose to thank Mr. Carrington very heartily for what he had said, adies who had seen their carriages broken and to second the motion to lay the resolutions on the table. Nowhere in the charter mained until morning wrapped up in the of the city could he find a warrant for any such resolutions. To consider these rience of one gentleman recently arrived resolutions would be to require every member to express his political opinions. Outside of others. He and his wife had spent of the body he would gladly do so, but in this body, never.

Mr. Tanner seconded the motion to table. He sympathized with the resolutions, but he thought it would be inexpedient now to pass them.

Mr. Bass agreed in all that had been said by his colleagues, and thought it would be best to get them home. In five minutes this but to cripple the hands of friends to pass cab was also a wreck by the wayside. After the resolutions. He, however, sympathized with the resolutions.

The Chair stated that the Legislature bad passed similar resolutions. The question being put, the resolutions were laid on the table without a dissenting

SPECIAL DETECTIVES FOR THE CITY. Mr. Wagner presented the following: Resolved, That the Chief of Police be authorized to detail for special purposes and at any time such men of the police force as he thinks necessary and, in his judgment, best fitted and qualified to perform such special duty; the men to be placed back on regular duty whenever the necessity for such special service ceases to exist.

Several members advocated the resolution. Mr. Smith said he should oppose it, as in his judgment it would inaugurate again the detective system. Mr. Carrington said that the Chief, by his silence, at least, had acquiesced in the abolition of the detective system, and he was opposed to giving to any one man the power to bring back into existence the very objectionable men and system which has just been abolished.

The Chair said that he thought that the gentleman did the Chief injustice, as he had never been asked his opinion on the subject. Mr. Carrington disclaimed any discourtesy to the Chief. He regarded him as a very efficient officer. Mr. Scott said that the power to detail men from the police force for special duty was already possessed by the Chief. Mr. Carrington moved to refer the resolution to the Board of Police Commissioners, and the question being taken the motion was

THE TOBACCO INSPECTIONS—SENATOR SMITH'S BILL.-The bill introduced in the Senate by Mr. Smith, of Nelson, proposing to amend the tobacco inspection laws of the State pro vides that where public warehouses are converted into private ones "the charges therein shall in no case exceed the charges prescribed by law for similar services in a warehouse established by law.

THE JUDGE WHO "SHINES UP CHARACTERS." A city official was recently tried for a misdemeanor in the Hustings Court and honorably acquitted; whereupon a former magistrate who was present became much elated, and gave such evidence thereof that Judge Guigon saw fit to impose a fine upon him, and stemmed, shall be exported from the State remarked that a former justice of Richmond unless the hogshead, cask, box, or package, ought to have known better. The next day containing the same shall be marked or the justice, in going down the street, was acought to have known better. The next day costed by a boot-black.

Boot-Black: "Shine your boots, sir? Give you good shine, sir." Justice (laughing): No; you needn't shine my boots, but I'd like to know if you'll shine up my character for me?" Boot-Black: "No, sir, I can't do it; but Judge Guigon, up in the Hustings Court, will, if you'll go up and see him."

response, and "moved on."

THE THEATRE-ENOCH ARDEN .- Mr. Edwin Adams may well feel complimented at the audience which last night welcomed him back among old friends and admirers. It was the largest that has been assembled this season at a dramatic entertainment, and comprised an unusually large proportion of our fashionable people, and nearly a quorum of each house of the General Assembly. The Theatre was comfortably heated, and the long interval in which there has been no amusement prepared those present to heartily enjoy the play. From the beginning to the end there was no lack of appreciation and enthusiasm; Mr. Adams was applauded upon his first appearance, and very frequently throughout the piece. His acting justified all that has been said in his praise and fulfilled all expectations. Mr. Edwin Browne as Philip Ray was disposed to do his best, but his pect that it will be rendered even better than

THE LECTURE TO-NIGHT .- Professor Caskie Harrison will repeat his lecture on Sparks, Spoons, and Spinsters" to-night at Assembly Hall, the proceeds to be devoted to Centenary Methodist church. Professor Harrison is an old Richmonder, who for the past five years has been professor of Ancient Languages of the University of the South He will, no doubt, be greeted by a large audience. The lecture is said to be highly interesting, and will doubtless be enjoyed by all who can attend. LECTURE. - Dr. George W. Bagby lectures on the "Virginia Negro, Past and Present," before the Young Men's Christian Association on Thursday night at Association Hall.

SHYLOCK .- Rev. Dr. Mayer, rabbi of Har Sinai Temple, Baltimore, will deliver at Assembly Hall, on Tuesday night, February 2d, a lecture on "Shylock." On Wednesday night following he will lecture on the " Crucifixion of Jesus of Nazareth."

A PLEASANT ENTERTAINMENT .- Arrangements are in progress to give at a very early day an unusual and very pleasant entertainment in the Sunday-school room of St. Mark's church. Some of the finest musical talent in the city will unite in a concert. There will be several large choruses, assisted by an orchestra, and a number of the choicest selections rendered by the instrumental performers. A lady, now a resident of our city, who was once a professional reader, will give several well-chosen pieces. The room is one of the best in Richmond for such a performance. Due notice will be given in our advertising columns of the time and other details.

CONCERT.-A concert is to be given in a short time for the benefit of the Monumental church. It promises to be a splendid affair.
